STORIES OF THE PIONEERS.

III.

Robert Devine.

Mr. Devine was born in Ireland in 1834, and sailed for Boston when he was twenty-one years of age. There he spent a few weeks in visiting a sister and on Christmas day, 1855, sailed from New York via the Isthmus of Panama for California, on the steamer Illinois. The voyage to Aspinall with 700 or 800 passengers aboard, was, as it still is, a matter of eight or nine days of uneventful sailing. Arrived at Aspinall, however, the new world began to loom up before the green Irish lad, strenuous but entrancing. "Green," said Mr. Devine, in speaking of those callow days, "why I wouldn't have been safe for a minute among a herd of hungry cows!"

They had recently had a revolution on the isthmus, one of those periodical affairs which the country was until very recently subject to. The Isthmian Railway had just been completed, and its accommodations were hardly adequate for the demands upon it by the crowds of gold seekers bound for California. At Panama 700 soldiers were added to the list of passengers and the voyage up the coast to San Francisco on the overcrowded steamer Golden Age, was not a pleasure excursion.

The San Francisco of '55 was a little more tame and much more populous than that of '49, but it was sufficiently interesting. The vigilance committee still found work to do occasionally, not, as Mr. Devine says, because of the lawlessness of the population, but because of the tardiness of justice in dealing with criminals. Terry, Chief Justice of the State, who afterwards killed Senator Broderick in a duel, was generally an object of suspicion, as he was thought to be in league with the criminal element, and offenders against the law could not be brought to trial promptly enough to satisfy the people.

There was plenty of work for everybody in 'Frisco in those days and the young lusty Irishman quickly found employment, but only remained there for two months, when he started for the mines. He traveled to the northern part of the state, halting awhile in Trinity county, stopping at Scott's Bar in Siskeyon. This was at that time one of the great mining camps of the State, in some respects; in point of richness it was one of the greatest in the world. "I can easily believe the stories they tell about the Klondyke," said Mr. Devine, "there's nothing been found up there richer than the diggings at Scott's Bar. I have known claims to pan out for a short time as high as $1000 per cubic foot of gravel, and one pan of dirt washed out produced 112 ounces of gold, about $1800, all being coarse gold, the pieces ranging from $25.00 to $5.00. Then came the great floods of '62 when it rained for forty days and forty nights pretty nearly, and that put an end to mining on Scott's Bar for awhile."

He then went south again, found Sacramento in the midst of an inland sea, turned from there promptly and went to Boise City, Idaho, being one of the first white men in that place. In traveling to Idaho at this time he went through Oregon, passed through Walla Walla, the Grande Ronde and Powder River Valleys, and up the Snake river.

In these years spent on the outskirts of civilization Mr. Devine was witness to some tragic events, typical of the times. In Scott's Bar, particularly, there were frequent visitations of sudden death. One incident he relates as illustrating the uncertainty of circumstantial evidence. One Saturday night at Scott's Bar in '62, while one of the principal saloons was well filled with patrons, a quarrel arose between two miners, Lynch and Crowder. Weapons were drawn and during the fight that ensued the lights were put out. There was a rapid exchange of shots in the darkness and when the light was turned on again, Lewis lay on the floor dead, with a knife wound in his vitals, while Crowder, unhurt, was covered with blood. A jury was quickly impaneled by Judge Lynch and the trial proceeded with decently and in order, Crowder protesting his innocence. No knife was found upon the accused, but he was pronounced guilty. The element of doubt in the case procured him defenders and the crowd was induced to allow the law to take its course. Crowder was afterwards tried in Yreka and duly hanged. Five or six years afterwards the man who really used the knife with murderout effect, made a death-bed confession of the act. He had a grudge against Lewis and had stabbed him during the fight.

Another case was that of a man who had committed a double murder, robbing and killing his victims in a cold-blooded manner. The evidence was conclusive against the fellow, but a smart lawyer whom he had secured, made a successful plea for a change of venue, on the plea that the feeling was too bitter against him to permit of a fair trial. The judge granted the motion and no sooner was his decision uttered than a lariat, thrown by some one in the crowd, whizzed through the air and coiled about the victim's neck. It only took a few minutes to hang him to the nearest tree.

"Yes," said Mr. Devine, reminiscently, "they had a man for breakfast nearly every morning, but it seems to me that men were more honest in those days. A man's word was as good as his bond. Coin was scarce, the currency being gold dust. I have known men to be at work on the sluices when some one would come along to collect a bill, and the fellow wouldn't take the trouble to stop, but would say, 'You'll find my dust up in the cabin there, go and help yourself,' and he knew that it would be weighed out just right."

In '67 Mr. Devine made a visit to the old country, remaining away four months.

He left Idaho and came to Los Angeles in '73, prospected a little in Soledad Canyon and then gave up mining.

It was in connection with his reflection upon the honesty of the men of the mining camps, that Mr. Devine told of his having offered $4000 for the lot on Spring street, Los Angeles, where the Angeles Hotel now stands; the offer being accepted, but the owner going squarely back on his bargain in order to sell it at a slight advance to some one else. Los Angeles at that time had a population of about 10,000, and no railroad except the one to Wilmington. From '79 to '82 he was deputy zanjero on the East Side ditch. He bought the fifty acres on the San Fernando road which he still holds, in 1882. During the boom of 18 years ago he sold a portion of his property for $1200 per acre to a town-lot speculator, who failed to make good, the property reverting to the seller.

Mr. Devine has been generally successful in his farming operations; the greater portion of his property was in vineyard for several years and was very remunerative until the vine disease attacked it. He now rents a number of acres to Japanese, having developed a good well on his property for irrigating.

Mr. Devine was married to Miss Eleanor Grace Chapman, of Ontario, Canada, on May 4th, 1874, and has a son and three daughters.

He has always atken an active and intelligent interest in public affairs; is a Democrat politically, but not a hide-bound partisan, and is exceptionally well informed on all public questions of the day. After an actively useful life he has settled down for the balance of his days to enjoy life with wife and children in the beautiful home of his choice.

Mrs. Mary E. Palmer, a small cottage on Sixth street, near the corner of A.

Mr. Peterson has the concrete foundation in for a two-story frame residence on the Kate C. Palmer tract, on A street, between Fourth and Fifth. This will have commodious cellar room and other modern conveniences and will cost about $3500.

On Orange Grove avenue, west of C street, Mr. John Fairly of Omaha, is building a two-story house of ten rooms, which will be complete and up-to-date in all details. Mrs. Fairley is residing at present at Glendale. This residence will also cost from $3500 to $4000.

Hugh Cornwall is putting up a cottage on the corner of First and H streets.

On Kenneth Road, opposite Mr. Dow's residence, Mr. Canfield is building the largest unplastered house that has been erected in the valley. It is strictly in the bungalow style, one and a half stories, covers a ground space of 50x66 feet, has hardwood floors and every convenience that the owner desires. The cost will be about $6000.

On Chestnut street, west of the boulevard, Lomita Park, Mr. Wm Kerr is putting up an artistic bungalow of five rooms that will cost about $1500.

GLENDALE, CAL., AUGUST 17, 1907

And Again Taft

It was last January that we nominated Wm. H. Taft as Republican candidate for president to succeed Theodore Roosevelt, and it has been a pleasure to us since to watch the movement grow. The only serious opponent that he has at present is an unwilling one—Roosevelt himself.

We believe that the people will gradually come around to our idea, that Roosevelt is so evidently sincere in his refusal to accept a renomination, that it would be the part of unwisdom to force it upon him.

We do not believe that no one but Roosevelt can carry out Roosevelt's policy. The president has done this great service to the people, he has shown them how. He has broken the ice of conservatism, ran counter to hoary precedent and demonstrated that the way to do things is to do them. Imitation is comparatively easy, and there are at least two members of the president's cabinet who are fitted by nature and training to carry out the Rooseveitian policy—Taft and Root, for they have in them the elements of greatness.

Pro Bono Publico

For the public good!

It is a fine old motto. What an excellent thing it would be to have it engraved on enduring brass in letters so large and in a place so conspicuous that the eye however shiftless could not evade it.

How different would things be in this community of ours if we were pervaded with the spirit of that motto. Then, instead of petitions of protest against public improvements launched as soon as the subject is broached, we should have a fair-minded spirit of inquiry, a desire to get at the truth of the matter and to do the thing that is best for the general good.

Protest is all right, but it should come after, not before investigation. All projects that may be suggested are not necessarily desirable or practicable; but when it gets to the point of serious action they should be approached in something like a spirit of unselfishness, with the query, "How will it affect us?" not "How will it affect me?"

There is rarely a question of general interest brought before the people for discussion that is thoroughly understood by them. If it is likely to cost one man a dollar his opposition is aroused; if he thinks that it will benefit his neighbor unduly, he becomes indignant, and quite probably his spirit of indignation so thoroughly possesses him that he finds no time for investigation.

But fortunately this is not the spirit of the majority of the people in any community; it is only the attitude usually of a vigorous minority. We believe the most of our people really desire to see those things done which will redound to the benefit of all. The benefits of government are mostly indirect, but they are just as surely received.

It is worth while to pay something for the benefit of the community of which we form a part, even tho the benefit to us personally may not at once be apparent. We are a part of the whole and every part should perform its work.

It is worth striving for, the public good.

Our Contemporary, the Times

We took occasion the other day to compliment the Los Angeles Times on the good work it has done for this section in the twenty-five years it has been under its present management. But this does not mean that we are always in accord with it; and just now we are impelled to remark again that some of its special correspondents are so thoroughly yellow through and through that the ordinary dog of that complexion would turn green with envy if he met one of them on the highway. And the man who does the headlines is not much better.

In last Monday's issue the headline man announced that the telegraphers strike was "doomed;" that the national president of the telegraphers' union was "pessimistic" as to the outcome, all of this being over a "special" dispatch which was entirely at variance with the long and reliable Associated Press reports printed immediately underneath, but without any "scare heads."

We are sorry to note this evidence of degeneracy on the part of this great newspaper. The public has to a great extent learned to rely upon its news, but if it does not get rid of its fake correspondents and its headline man, it will soon be in the class with the Examiner, which should be allowed to retain a monopoly of the "news made to order."

The Telegraphers' Strike

Strikes are always bad in their effect upon the classes of our people who are caught midway in the clash between employers and employees.

The present strike of the telegraphers is particularly injurious to that part of the general public that has become accustomed to a dependence upon the telegraph for the daily transaction of business; and occurring at this season, it will work a great loss to the fruit growers and dealers especially. The shippers of green fruits depend entirely upon the telegraph in all their transactions between eastern markets and western producers; and with the telegraphic service crippled as at present, the loss will be great.

As to the merits of the case, it is not worth while to say much. There is right and wrong on both sides; the companies have not been just to their employees in the matter of wages and have undoubtedly evaded and broken at least some of the conditions of former agreements. They could well have afforded to have made a very liberal increase in salaries paid during the many years of prosperity which they have enjoyed, but the greed for dividends has prevented them from doing so. No other class of workers has been more patient and reliable in the performance of duty at a fixed salary schedule while the price of all commodities was constantly increasing. On the other hand, there seems to have been broken agreements on the part of the operators in some instances, and the strike of the Associated Press operators on a few hours' notice seems to have been unjustifiable.

There is one feature of the strike which we cannot refrain from commenting upon, and that is the untruthful statements quoted as being made by some telegraphic officials in an effort to deceive the public, and in the unfairness of the reports given by the Los Angeles Times. The big newspapers generally pay their own operators and lease wires of the two commercial companies; therefore they are able to get their "Special Dispatches," notwithstanding the strike. The public is the sufferer in consequence of this, however, as "Special Dispatches" are notoriously untrustworthy, and always need the confirmation of the slower but reliable Associated Press service. Hence the boast of the Times that it is giving telegraphic service with usual completeness, is untrue. We are incredible in regard to the correctness of its report as to what Supt. Lamb, of the Western Union Company in Los Angeles, has to say. According to the report in Tuesday's Times, he says: "From New York comes report that 500 operators are ready for duty in the general operating room. This is twice the normal force and business will be transacted in New York without further delay."

The statement is ridiculously untrue; 500 operators cannot handle one-half of the normal business of that office.

He is reported further as saying: "Locally we have ample force . . . business has moved promptly all day," etc. Which is misleading, to say the least. As a matter of fact, all good telegraphers who wish employment at the business can get it when no strike is on, and the effort to make the public believe that business is being handled when the majority of these workers are on a strike, will only result in the public having a contempt for any official or newspaper making the statement.

We are requested to announce that Mrs. Williams has not now, and has not for several months, had any connection whatever with the Valley Independent. This announcement is made necessary from the fact that Mrs. Williams is being annoyed by unnecessary telephone calls and desires to make it plain and clear that she has no connedtion with the paper named.

Our good friend Mr. M. M. Eshelman, of the new subdivision Lomita, called at this office yesterday and reports things as booming there. The well is now being sunk and an abundance of fine water is assured. They will put in crops on a large scale—100 acres in barley, 300 acres in cabbage and other crops in as large measure. The California Vegetable Union is to erect a warehouse there to care for the crops.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Banker, returned to Glendale last week after a two months' absence during which time they visited Colorado and Missouri. Mr. Banker says that at Los Vegas on July 4th the thermometer registered 120 degrees, but that it was comfortable there in comparison with Kansas City with mercury at 90. His brother-in-law, Mr. Shaw (an old timer here) is located at Colorado Springs, well and prospering. Crops are good in the middle West, prices high and prosperity general.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES.

Quite a goodly number of our people were privileged to attend the camp-meeting at Huntington Beach for a part or all the time, and it is the universal verdict that the meeting was a great success. About 150 persons were converted, a great many quickened into a better experience and life. Dr. Torry is one of the greatest Bible leaders living. He will return to Los Angeles to hold a meeting during the winter or spring.

The Sabbath School on last Sabbath was in charge of the assistant superintendent, Miss Hendershott. The school was full of interest. A good attendance, fine collection, splendid singing with all that makes up a successful school.

The devotional services of the League are well attended and very should arrange to be present and aid in making these services all they ought to be. There was a business meeting on Tuesday evening, not largely attended, but good in everything else.

The Brotherhood of St. Paul is being organized and promises to be an agency of real power for good. At a meeting on Monday evening there were a number of deeply interested persons out and good work was done. The next meeting will be the last Monday evening in August. You are invited to be present and bring your friend.

A meeting of deep interest was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. F. Hendershott by the W. F. M. S. It was the time of annual opening of mite boxes and the results showed that the Lord's poor are not forgotten by these women.

On Sabbath, August 18th, at 11 o'clock, the pastor will preach on "Prayer for Daily Bread," as taught by the Savior, being the fifth sermon on the Lord's prayer.

Splendid music is being given from Sabbath to Sabbath, by the choir. Reading from the "Word" by the congregation is made a part of the service in which there is much interest.

BOARD OF TRADE.

The regular meeting of the Board of Trade was held at the City Hall last Saturday evening. The secretary presented a list of thirteen new members, some of whom were present, and all were declared elected to membership. The secretary reported that the guide books furnished by the National Educational Association, for which the Board had contributed, were in his possession ready for distribution.

A committee consisting of Messrs. Buck, Peterson and Blackburn, was appointed by the chairman (Mr. Parcher, in the absence of Mr. Goode), to take up the matter of numbering houses on our streets. A complaint was laid before the Board in regard to cars standing on the alley back of the lumber yard and a committee consisting of Mr. Peterson and Mr. J. F. McIntyre was appointed to endeavor to secure some agreement among the firms interested, in regard to the matter.

The subject of a public park was brought before the Board by Mr. Peterson and on motion it was decided to appoint a committee to look into the matter. The naming of the members of the committee was deferred.

The Verdugo History Club

When this club was organized for the laudable purpose of "perpetuating the history of our Spanish and Mexican families," etc., we said we would watch with interest the history it might make. And it is making history all right, only in a unique manner which never occurred to the other great historians who have gone before.

The factory is located in the cottage on H street back of the planing mill and is equipped with a pool table and other up-to-date devices for the manufacture of history and other things. The scandalous story to the effect that they are making history with an axe and a stuffed club is the baseless fabric of a pipe dream.

FOR SALE—A milk route, 18½ quarts of milk; 2 cows; a snap. It will pay for cows and feed in four months. R. D. Lamson, cor. A and Third streets.

Capt. Mock's Voyages

Last week Capt. Mock took a party to Catalina consisting of Roy Currier and T. C. Jones, of Glendale; Messrs. Waddingham and friend and Mr. Hamlin, of Los Angeles, and Chas. Catlin, Geo. Dewey, Will Gould and Mr. Bailey, of Burbank.

On Thursday of this week the captain sailed with his family for a cruise to Catalina, San Clemente and San Diego. Returning they will visit Venice, Santa Cruz Island and Santa Barbara, putting in about a week on the water.

Old Timers' Picnic at Echo Park

SATURDAY, AUGUST 24th

Old settlers of Glendale, Tropico, Eagle Rock and vicinity are requested to meet as above for a pleasant reunion.

The invitation is particularly to those who were here eighteen years ago or longer, but no one is barred.

Bring your families and your luncheon. Get there by noon or earlier. Don't wait for further invitation.

J. C. SHERER, for Committee.

Miss Hagerty Returns

Miss Emma Hagerty, having sufficiently recovered from the severe operations her attending physicians deemed necessary to perform on her limbs, was removed from the California hospital Wednesday to the home of Mrs. David H. Imler, Tropico. Though Miss Hagerty will be confined to her bed for a number of weeks and at times suffers intense pain, yet her gentle fortitude renders her the most heroic of sufferers.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

The City Trustees spent the first days of the week in going over the assessment roll and correcting errors. It was found that the county assessment is very inequitable and many changes will be made. There will be no very radical change in the valuation, but the tendency of the work done has been in the nature of an advance in values.

Notices will be sent to parties upon whose property the assessment has been increased and an opportunity given them to show why the increase should not be made, by appearing before the board on Friday, August 23rd, and the day following.

THE POOL ROOM LICENSE.

In granting a pool room license to L. F. Hadrich, Wednesday evening, the trustees were actuated purely by motives of public policy. They recognized the facts as they exist and took such action as will, we believe, prove to be the best for the community. The license is granted under proper restrictions which include the exclusion of boys under 16, prohibition of gambling of any kind, Sunday closing, no back rooms and an open, orderly place, which will be closed at any time that the conditions are disregarded.

The "South Pasadenan" on Mr. Huntington

Follow the tracks of the Pacific Electric railroad in any direction, and if it be a trunk line, it will lead you to the immense holdings of the Huntington companies in valuable and desirable real estate. And the mere management and running of the roads after they are built, aside from the development of these Huntington holdings, is a matter that is given just sufficient attention to hold the franchise and keep other railroad builders out, and little more. But in spite of this woeful lack of proper railroad management upon part of the Pacific Electric company the lines are for the most part coining money and doing it very rapidly, notwithstanding Mr. Huntington's assertion that the Short line between Pasadena and Los Angeles is the only line thnt is paying its way, and that it does not make sufficient to offset the losses incurred by the local Pasadena lines. And I want to say right here that if Mr. Huntington would manage his lines for the benefit of the people, they would pay still more then they do now. But people who have haretofore sold their horses and buggies and automobiles thinking they could depend upon the banana line which so persistently runs its cars in bunches, are today buying them back at advance in order to be able to parallel the lines of Mr. Huntington and get to their business in comfort and on time. . . .

There are many things that lead one to understand that the Pacific Electric Railroad company is not built upon the square. Its treatment of the main line through South Pasadena is too well known to local readers that little if anything need be said on that line. Mr. Huntington owns no real estate contiguous to that line, hence it is merely "holding the franchise," as it were, under the plea that it does not pay—yet there is seldom a time when a man may get a seat on one of its cars. But this is another story and will save for another time, while I cite an instance of the perfidy of the company in a near-by town. In Glendale, as usual when Mr. Huntington is about to build a line, the people were given to understand that under certain conditions they might get a railroad. The "conditions" meant the usual "bonus" to "induce" the company to build. And to make a long story short, the people got together and paid "bonus" of some thousands of dollars for the building of a short spur track that was to answer for a railroad, connecting with a main line leading to some of Mr. Huntington's interests. All went well for a time after the money was paid and the road built, then there came some dissatisfaction, and the road for which the people had paid their good money, was unceremoniously taken up and removed between two days. That was rank robbery, it would seem from the standpoint of honest people, but here is the sequel, and it looks like folly: The people are now actually raising another "bonus" of some twenty thousand dollars to "induce" the company to build another and somewhat longer line–but I am told they have an iron bound contract that it is to be operated for their benefit instead of being torn up. But honestly, is this "square" business?

ROADRUNNER.

Taft and the Tariff.

Taft is in haromony with the sentiment of the present day. His sympathies are right. He is opposed to the governmental policy which allows the manipulation of national prosperity to increase the cost of living for the wage earner beyond the possibility of increase in his wages, and add only to the riches of protected trusts and corporations. It is not surprising that such a man should meet the approval of the people and the opposition of the "special interests." If "Uncle Joe" Cannon and the rest of the "standpatters" understood the people they would understand Taft and Taft's popularity.—Kansas City Star.

Bulletin of Progress

THE CALIFORNIA PROMOTION COMMITTEE.

July 31, 1907

California is in the midst of its harvest season, and from all parts of the State The California Promotion Committee is receiving splendid reports of crops and price conditions, showing that the State is passing through an era of unexampled prosperity. With the exception of prunes, apricots and asparagus reports show that the output is exceptionally fine, with an Eastern demand that exceeds former reoords. Prices are very high, and even in crops which are short producers will have best results.

There is a dearth of labor in all agricultural districts, and thousands of people can find immediate employment at remunerative wages. Canneries and packing houses note great scarcity of help, notwithstanding a high wage that is being offered.

Railway building, both steam and electric, is progressing rapidly in many parts of the state, many lines promising operation during the coming month. Wide development of the interior is promised through this construction, and with it a moro intensive settlement through subdivisions of large tracts into small farms, for which there is great demand.

Building operations in all parts of the State show great increase. In San Francisco conditions are rapidly improving, prices of building material having returned to about normal, and much outside capital coming in for investment. There is strong financial sentiment, as is indicated by increased bank deposits and increased bank clearings.

The following summary for July shows California conditions:

San Francisco building permites, $4,752,778.

San Erancisco building permits since the fire, $78,250,620.

Los Angeles building permits, $1,-245,174.

San Diego building permits, $149,450.

Oakland building permits, $373,-085.50.

San Francisco real estate sales, 620; value, $1,650,000.

San Francisco bank clearings, $176,-470,396.11.

San Francisco bank clearings, July, 1906, $160,631.793.87.

San Francisco bank clearings, July, 1905, $148,405,121.81.

Los Angeles bank clearings, $46,-812,383.

Oakland bank clearings, $10,262,054.

San Jose bank clearings, $2,232,-139.99.

San Francisco Customs receipts $803,085.96.

A Large Telescope

The new reflecting telescope which is being constructed for the Carnegie Solar Observatory on Mt. Wilson will soon be completed. The reflecting mirror of this great telescope will be 100 inches, or a little over eight feet in diameter.

This telescope, when completed, will be located on Mt. Wilson, 6000 feet above the sea.

The observatory was established in 1904 for the special purpose of studying the sun and the problems of solar and stellar evolution. After a long and careful investigation of possible sites, it was found that the conditions on Mt. Wilson were almost ideal for solar observations, and the directors of the Carnegie Institute have made ample provision for the establishment and maintenance of the observatory during at least ten years, the length of the sun-spot period.

LIBRARY NOTICE.

The Glendale Library and Reading Room is open to the public on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 1 to 6 o'clock.

MABEL PATTERSON, Librarian.

The Verdugo Canyon Consolidated Water Company

The absence of Mr. Collins, who recently returned from the East, caused some delay in completing the organization of this company; but a full meeting of the directors was held on Thursday of last week, and the following officers were elected: President, A. W. Collins; Vice-President, Wilmot Parcher; Secretary, J. C. Sherer; Treasurer, H. H. Davenport. The remaining members of the Board of Directors are: Elias Ayers, Warren Story and A. K. Crawford.

The primary object of this company is to consolidate in one effective organization all the water interests of our valley. It aims to take in the water of the Verdugo Canyon and the different distributing systems and any private water companies and water right that operate in the same territory.

This consolidated company stands ready to buy up such rights and stock as are named above, paying cash for the same or issuing in lieu thereof, stock in the new company, at the option of the water owner.

The new company, having 250,000 shares in the corporation, will issue twelve shares of its stock in exchange for one share in the Verdugo Canyon Water Company and appurtenant water right; or will pay twelve dollars per share in cash for the same.

In the conveyance of present water right to the new company, the rights of present owners are protected by two provisos; one, to the effect that the conveyance to the new company shall not be effective until a majority of the stock of the Verdugo Canyon Co. and of the water rights of Verdugo Canyon shall have been so conveyed; the second providing that the transfer of the said stock and right shall not affect the present use and distribution of water without the present owner's further consent.

It is not proposed at present to take over any of the local companies, altho that is, of course, one of the ultimate objects. There are conditions not generally known and which it is not advisable to mention here, which render it very necessary to the future welfare of Glendale, Tropico and vicinity, that the consolidation of our water interests should now be made, and from an economic standpoint it is very apparent that it would be better for all concerned that we should have one large effective organization, rather then continue with divided interests as at present.

It is understood that the Tropico owners are by a large majority in favor of the project and we hope to see it carried through to a successful conclusion.

Mr. Abram L. Eves, of the firm of Eves & Wilkinson, has returned from a two weeks' vacation, which was spent with relatives at Santa Clara and in San Francisco. He reports having had a most delightful time, particularly in the Santa Clara valley. He was particularly impressed with the great orchards of that section and the evidences of systematic care bestowed upon them. The prune crop of the valley however is almost a failure this year, which will entail considerable loss on that section where on immense acreage is planted to the French prune.

Fine Work of a Los Angeles Woman

Miss Adelaide R. Hasse, whom many of our people remember as assistant librarian in the Los Angeles public library a few years ago, has achieved success and a certain measure of fame by hard work on what would ordinarily be considered rather prosaic lines.

She became interested in the arranging and indexing of government documents, and sent a check list to Washington to be verified. They found there that it was much more complete than anything that had ever been done by the department; that it was, in fact, just what was needed, and the result was the appointment of Miss Hasse to the position of document librarian. Then the New York public library secured her services, and she is now engaged in that city in making "the greatest collection of its kind in the world"—a collection of public or official documents which will be of incalculable value to the future historian.

As a good Californian, you can assist The California Promotion Committee. (The State Central Organization.)

By supporting the Chamber of Commerce or other development association of your locality.

By sending to The California Promotion Committee the names of your friends who are residents of other States and countries, so that the Committee may take up correspondence with them and tell them of California's opportunities.

By working hand in hand with your local newspaper and making them the slogans of Progress for your region.

By encuraging the subdivision of land and the extension and development of intensive farming.

By keeping in touch with The California Promotion Committee and its work; by furnishing to it items of news denoting progress and prosperity for publication in Eastern centers, and by offering suggestions for the enlargement of the scope of its activities.

By realizing what a glorious State California is and into what a grander commonwealth it is developing with accelerating energy, and letting all the world know about it all the time.

Mr. Ben Nichols writes from McGill, Nevada, where he is located at present. He reports it a lively mining camp, the Guggenheims having a smelter there. The weather is hot during the day and almost frost at night.

The cost of living is high, fruit and vegetables being very scarce, new potatoes bringing seven cents per pound. He expects to remain until cold weather sets in.

Supply all the veal we handle. This accounts for the tender, sweet flavor of the meat.

Veal is a Good Meat

At this season; that is, good veal. Try a few chops for a roast today. You'll think you're eating chicken when you come to taste it. As a change from the heavy winter meats you will find it delightful.

Thursday of last week a prize fight took place in a gum tree grove near Burbank. The affair was disclosed accidentally when the constable arrested some boys for stealing melons, and by questioning them learned that they had been in attendance at the fight. Mike Horowitz, one of the principals, a youth of sixteen years of age, was arrested, the other making his escape. Horowitz was tried before Judge Melrose at Tropico, on Monday, plead guilty and was sentenced to 30 days in jail; the judge being lenient on account of the youth of the accused. On Wednesday J. Wordsworth, the manager of the affair, had his trial and was acquitted under instructions of the judge to the jury; the prosecution not having the witnesses necessary to establish its case. Warrants are out for Harry Pinkelstein, the other principal, and one other person implicated.

Courses for Home Study

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION IN AGRICULTURE

BERKELEY, August 12, 1907.

Excellent reading courses for home study are now provided by the extension department of the University College of Agriculture. Two such courses are offered at the present time: one in Economic Entomology and the other in Irrigation Practice and Institutions. These oourses are an outward growth of the Farmers' Institutes and are dest'ned to amplify and trade the work of such meetings. Anyone desiring to read up on the subjects offered, in a systematic way, may enroll and literature will be furnished free of cost save transportation from and to Berkeley. The publications are chosen as representative of the best thought and study and experience on the questions at issue. Students using them have the privilege of consulting on difficult points members of the staff of the College of Agriculture at Berkeley who are specialists in the various line. University Extension teaching will thus be brought directly to the students' home.

During the year just ended 165 students have been enrolled in these courses. Thirty-seven counties of this state and four states beside California are represented. An analysis of the enrollment shows that 95 per cent of the students are directly interested in some form of Agricultural work—in other words those to whom the courses are most profitable are registered.
